Pioneer school commemorated with sign

A small, tree-ringed hilltop along Highway 41 nine kilometres south of Elk Point was once the site of the largest school in the area, and now is the site of a handsome commemorative sign celebrating its 42 years of service to the community.

Five former students, along with two of their wives, a daughter and son-in-law gathered at the newly completed sign last Thursday and agreed, as a committee, that all their efforts in fundraising, perfecting the design and overseeing the project through its many steps were well worth it.

King George students Walter Moneta, Johnny Maksymec, Ed Bepalko, Allan Berg and Sid Miller shared reminiscences about their days of "walking three miles to school, up hill both ways," which in view of its location, could have been a distinct possibility. They recalled the massive cast-iron stove that warmed those sitting closest, while those closer to the outside walls continued to shiver, and of having shared one teacher with five other grades in the same classroom.

Built in 1910 as one of the typical one-room schools to serve the pioneer families coming to the area, King George was one of the few rural schools of its time to have expanded to two rooms, and to have offered education to students from grades one to 12, with up to 70 students at one time. The school closed in 1952, after the first bridge was built across the North Saskatchewan River, providing easy access to Elk Point.

SPAA Cross Country has successful Ross Lake debut

QUINTON AMUNDSON
Review Contributor

The conditions were picturesque for cross country running.

The weather was warm and the skies were clear last Thursday throughout the entire duration of the St. Paul Athletics Association (SPAA) Cross Country Finals, which were held at Ross Lake in Whitney Lakes Provincial Park for the very first time. In recent years this event has been held annually at Westcove.

Jonathan Randall, the athletic director of F. G. Miller Jr./Sr. High School who served as an organizer of this competition, told the Journal in an email the time was right to make a venue change.

"We wanted to make a change so my Vice Principal Darcy Youngmans and myself mapped out the trails and put in an application. We figured it would be good to have a new location and have our school host the event. We have been doing lots of positive things at our school and hosting an event like this shows the positive growth we are experiencing at our school."

Ross Lake received positive reviews at the conclusion of the meet.

"It was a beautiful day at Ross Lake Provincial Park," stated Hank Smid, the athletic director of St. Paul Regional High School. "The course was great for our senior high runners. Jonathan Randall and his team did a great job organizing and running the race. Holding it at Ross Lake this year alleviated some safety concerns that we had at Westcove. Not that it was not safe at Westcove but that we did not have these issues at this year's venue. For the first competition there, it went extremely well."

Rural Crime Watch back to work

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Greater Lakeland Rural Crime Watch Association held their first meeting of the new season in St. Paul last Thursday, with disappointing attendance but with good feedback from last spring's donations and encouraging plans for future projects.

The group received thanks from St. Paul/Saddle Lake RCMP Road Race organizing committee for their donation of prize money, which went to Racette Jr. High, F. G. Miller High School, Glen Avon, Ecole Des Beaux Lac, Ecole Voyageur, St. Paul Regional High and Glendon School.

Thanks were also forthcoming from Duane Fleming of Alberta Fish and Wildlife who said the telescopic camera lens paid for by the association had allowed him to check out fishing activities on Lac Bellevue and Floatingstone Lake, where he was happy to report all participants were complying with the catch-and-release regulations.

GLRCW president Orest Sereda was happy to report that the association's updated bylaws have finally been approved, with help from Heather Nickel, who "got on the phone and found out what was needed" in the way of revisions.

He outlined the new procedure for applying for Rural Crime Watch membership. Now, after filling out the required form, an applicant must take to a RCMP detachment with two pieces of identification in order to have it approved. When Sereda receives the approved form and the $10 lifetime membership fee, "that person will receive three signs" and become a member, he said. He has received a number of applications in recent months, after the RCW float appeared in Elk Point's Canada Day parade and the group had a table at Information Night in Elk Point.

Sereda said he had heard from a Frog Lake resident interested in joining the association, and has also been approached by a Saddle Lake resident who wanted information on organizing a rural crime watch group. The group of concerned citizens from the Lindbergh area is now meeting once a month, he added.

Fleming had a new project in mind, this time sandwich board signs that could be placed at the scene of a wildlife crime, seeking public information and tips regarding the incident. The members present felt the signs, bearing RCW and Report A Poacher logos, could be a good advertisement for the benefits of Rural Crime Watch, and could be easily moved as required.

The next Rural Crime Watch meeting is slated for November 19 in Elk Point.

PLAYSCHOOL APPRECIATES DONATION - On Tuesday, Sept. 15, Kara Hoeving, on behalf of TD Canada Trust, presented instructor Tammy Klatt with a donation cheque of $500 to Elk Point Jack & Jill Playschool. Playschool is very grateful for the donations that it receives from the community! It is a non-profit organization that operates mostly on the money that is raised by parents through fundraising. Playschool is up and running for another fun, filled learning year with 22 students currently enrolled into the morning and afternoon program.

Benefit group seeks nominees

JANANI WHITFIELD
Review Staff

Once again, people are invited to submit nominations to support families that have experienced a tragedy, illness or other challenge in the past year to the St. Paul and Community Family Benefit Group.

Shauna Burke, a board member with the benefit group, explains that the tragedy might involve anything from a medical emergency, a theft, a fire, an illness, an accident or more.

"Our phrase is 'Families helping Families.' If you know of a family that's experienced a hardship, we want to make sure we're taking care of people in our community," she said, adding nominations are open from Oct. 1 to Dec. 1.

Burke explained that the group fundraises throughout the year. "We have our barbecues that we work for the French school and the ones that are on rodeo weekend - we do all that to host the New Year's Benefit so that 100 per cent of whatever's raised on that (New Year's Eve) weekend goes to the families."

Since the group started hosting the annual New Year's Eve Benefit Dance back in 2008, almost $114,000 has been raised to support 20 local families, with five families receiving funds from last year's event.

Families nominated must have at least one child under the age of 18 living at home, they must reside within the Town of St. Paul or within the County of St. Paul borders, and they must not have been the recipient of any other community fundraising effort.

People can submit nominations by calling Tammy at 780-645-1327, emailing stpaulcommunitiesfamilybenefit@gmail.com or messaging the group via its Facebook site.

2015 Deer Hunters - Your role in Chronic Wasting Disease Surveillance

As a deer hunter in Alberta, you play an important role in the province's chronic wasting disease (CWD) surveillance program.

The government requires CWD testing on all deer harvested within Wildlife Management Units (WMUs): 102, 116, 118, 119, 124, 144, 148, 150, 151, 152, 160, 162, 163, 164, 200, 202, 203, 204, 230, 232, 234, 236, 238, 254, 256, 258, 500, 728, and 730. It is mandatory to submit deer heads harvested in these areas.

In addition, five new mandatory units were added: 138, 142, 156, 158, and 166.

Antlers and skull cap can be removed before the head is submitted.

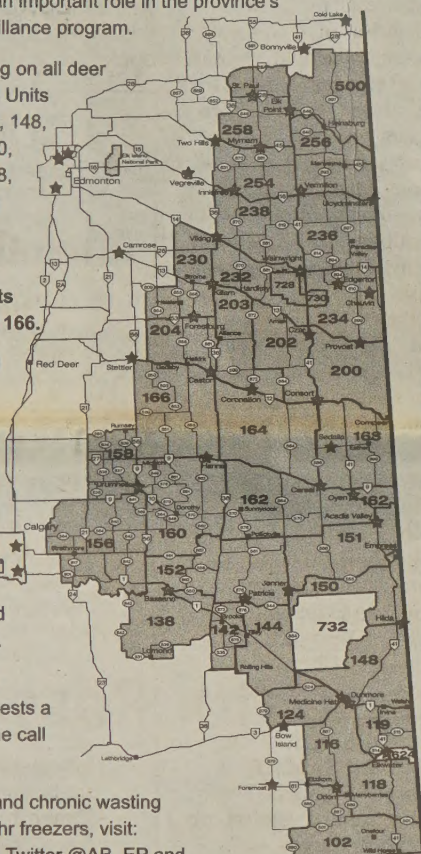

Each head must have a green CWD label attached. After you shoot your deer, visit a Fish and Wildlife office or, during rifle seasons, one of our 24-hr freezers in eastern Alberta to pick up and fill out BOTH SIDES of a green CWD label. Heads should be kept frozen and dropped off at any Fish and Wildlife office or at any of the freezers.

CWD-negative results are provided at albertarelm.com. Any hunter who harvests a CWD-positive deer will receive a phone call from Fish and Wildlife staff.

For information on hunting in Alberta and chronic wasting disease, including locations of the 24-hr freezers, visit: www.mywildalberta.com. Follow us on Twitter @AB_EP and Facebook at My Wild Alberta.

Thanks to all hunters and landowners for your continued support and co-operation with this important disease surveillance program.

KING GEORGE SCHOOL IN 1944 - was the largest school in the area and served students from Grades 1 to 12. Photo courtesy of King George and District Historical Group

King George

"Some of the high school kids came from other schools and boarded across the road at Casper Zarowny's," one student recalled as a fat envelope of photos of the school and its long-ago students were passed around, sparking more memories.

Photos of the school and its neighbouring teacherage dated 1944 have been faithfully reproduced on the wrought iron sign, which is bracketed with square steel posts topped with silhouettes of diligent students hard at work at their desks.

The school name, in gold, arches across the top of the sign, with its dates of operation, 1910 to 1952, and its school division number, 2207, in the foreground. A series of six plaques lined up below the artistic rendering list the numerous contributors who made the sign project possible. Most of the contributions came from former students, their families or descendants, who were proud to see this long-ago source of education remembered for posterity.

St. Paul election forum tonight

JANICE HUSER
Review Contributor

Locals will be given the opportunity to attend not only one, but two candidate forums prior to the Oct. 19 federal election in St. Paul, with the St. Paul and District Chamber of Commerce organizing one for this evening, Sept. 29, followed by a forum hosted by the Mannawanis Centre on Oct. 5.

However, the Mannawanis Centre's forum sparked some clashes, as it coincides with the date set by the Bonnyville Chamber of Commerce's forum.

"They came in a week after we began ours and decided they wanted that date and that was it," said Jim White, organizer of the Friendship Centre forum. "We're just going ahead and, needless to say, the Chamber is just raining on our parade. The Chamber doesn't hold the monopoly on candidates."

White says he's been involved with the St. Paul friendship centre for many years. He has also been involved in politics throughout his life, and believes First Nations people need to take a bigger role in the democratic process.

"Our voice has been silent for so long," says White. Although the event is open to everyone, he especially encourages First Nations people to attend the forum, which Liberal candidate Gerry Parenteau and NDP candidate Duane Zaraska have confirmed they will attend. Conservative candidate Shannon Stubbs and Libertarian candidate Robert McFadzean will not attend, as they will be attending the Bonnyville forum.

"The friendship centre is a safe haven," says White, adding, "It's a place to speak freely." He believes some people will feel more comfortable attending a forum at the friendship centre, as opposed to other venues.

Both Zaraska and Parenteau are concerned about not having an outlet to voice their platforms in Bonnyville, but believe there is still time for the scheduling to be ironed out.

All four candidates for the Lakeland riding have confirmed their attendance at the St. Paul & District Chamber of Commerce's election forum, to be held Sept. 29.

Tonight's election forum will take place at the St. Paul Rec. Centre. Doors open at 6:30 p.m., and opening comments will take place at about 7 p.m.

Written questions will be accepted, along with an open mic being available to those who wish to ask questions out loud. Following the one-hour long question period, refreshments will be served and constituents will be allowed to speak with politicians if they wish.

EDITORIAL

Starting off with a clean slate

There's a clean slate in this area for the 2015 federal election, with a reinvented riding and no incumbent candidate on the ballot.

We were once part of the Vegreville riding, back when it was "Maz Country," with Don Maazankowski as our representative in Ottawa. Then in 1988 we became Beaver River, with Canada's first Reform Member of Parliament, Deborah Grey, replacing John Dahmer, who succumbed to cancer days after winning the first election for the riding. Beaver River turned to Lakeland in 1997, with MP Leon Benoit evolving from Reform to Alliance to Conservative during his two terms in office.

In 2003, the riding was split into Fort McMurray - Athabasca, Vegreville - Wainwright and Westlock - St. Paul. Westlock - St. Paul, which also included bits and pieces of several other former ridings, was first represented by Dave Chatters and since 2006 by Brian Storseth. Now we're back to Lakeland again, a Lakeland with new boundaries that no longer include Lac La Biche and Cold Lake, but stretch westward to take in Athabasca and Waskatenau.

None of the candidates we will choose from - Conservative Shannon Stubbs, Green Party's Danielle Montgomery, Liberal Gary Parenteau, Libertarian Robert McFadzean and NDP Duane Zaraska, have been elected to Ottawa before.

It's a fresh start all around, whatever voters decide.

WAY BACK WHEN...

Bicentennial planning, North West Rebellion, Northern Lights

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE LAKELAND REVIEW AND ELK POINT REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF SEPT. 29 IN...

1985

Transportation Minister Marvin Moore cut the ribbon held by MLA John Drobot, County of St. Paul Reeve Robert Bouchard and Mayor Ed Buck to officially open the Elk Point Airport. A group of business owners asked the chamber of commerce for support against an influx of incoming businesses that they felt could "take over the town" and cause financial disaster for existing businesses.

the 1885 North West Rebellion gathered at Frog Lake Historic Site to get new insight and different perspectives on what has long been referred to as the "Frog Lake Massacre." Oil company representatives visiting the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce meeting were urged to "Hire us more, pay us faster and shop locally" from the businesses in attendance.

Northern Lights Library System celebrated the accomplishments of its member libraries at its 12th annual conference, which featured as keynote speaker, Ottawa's first Reform Party MP Deborah Grey (shown above) and her newly published first book, "Never Retreat, Never Explain, Never Apologize: My Life, My Politics." The annual chamber of commerce Christmas Extravaganza was rescheduled to Friday, Dec. 2 from November 25, which fell between pay-days, in hope of increasing attendance.

2010

New features and an expanded lineup of volunteers gave Christmas Extravaganza a jump-start at the first planning meeting for the Nov. 28 event, with passports to collect stamps to enter for prizes, students interested in helping with activities for younger children, a skating rink to be constructed near the Eco Centre and volunteers willing to install Christmas lights on downtown businesses. Strategies for land use in Alberta's Lower Athabasca Region were outlined at a public input session as the province worked toward a long-term vision and sustainable plan for northeast Alberta.

1990

Hospital administrator Clem Johnson welcomed new physician Dr. Barrie Pelland, who would be establishing a practice in Elk Point in early December, with the Physician Recruitment Committee still on the hunt for at least one more doctor. With 15 months to go before the Bicentennial year of Fort George and Buckingham House fur trading posts, the Town of Elk Point approved the formation of a Bicentennial Planning Committee, which would be chaired by Billie Milholland of the Tourism Action Committee and with Coun. Adele Mandryk as town council's representative.

1995

Four candidates, George Anderson, Johnny Lypowy, Allen Young and Fritz Youngmans, were in the running for the Division 1 seat, held for 30 years by Bob Smith, in the County of St. Paul election race. Alberta's Electoral Boundaries Commission was coming to St. Paul to get local residents' opinions and perspective on numbers and distribution of seats across the province.

Remembering Yogi

This past week, on Sept. 22 the world lost a terrific baseball man. At age 90, Yogi Berra passed away, 69 years to the very day that he made his major league debut. In 1946, Yogi Berra donned the uniform of the great New York Yankees and took his place on the diamond. His career as a player spanned nearly two decades and he became one of baseball's greatest catchers and hitters. He made 18 consecutive All Star appearances from 1948 to 1962. He was the MLB MVP three times, he hit 358 home runs and collected 1,430 RBI's. He played in 14 World Series and won 10 championships with the Yankees. But much of Yogi's fame can be attributed to not to what he accomplished, but to the words he uttered, like "It ain't over till it's over," an observation he made in the 1973 season as a manager. And how about one: "You should always go to other people's funerals; otherwise they won't come to yours." I personally love reading quotes and very often do repeat them, so here's some more of my favorites "Half the lies they tell about me aren't true." ... "You wouldn't have won if we'd beaten you." ... "If people don't want to come out to the ball park, nobody's gonna stop them." and "I never said most of the things I said."

The best baseball is in October and the Blue Jays have made it to the post season for the first time in 22 years. Get on the bandwagon, because October going to be AWESOME!

FGM juniors win at Glen Avon

A full day of volleyball action was hosted in the Glen Avon and St. Paul Regional school gymnasiums on Saturday as Glen Avon hosted its Panther Invitational tournament.

The sound of balls being spiked, whistles, and the crowd cheering began at 9 a.m. and ended after 10 p.m. A total of nine junior high girls team, and nine junior high boys teams battled throughout the day to attain volleyball supremacy.

At the end of the day, two local school teams on each side earned placement within the top two.

The Racette Junior

High School boys team, coached by Tanya Hebert, won the boys tournament by defeating the team from F. G. Miller Jr. High School, while the Glen Avon girls team, led by Lynn Smid and Robyn Randall, earned runner-up status to F. G. Miller in a tightly contested final.

F. G. Miller boys earned a berth in the final by taking down Glen Avon in the quarterfinals and St. Jerome's in the semi-final.

Racette dominated the opening set of the match with a score of 25-5. The school from Elk Point gave a more vigorous effort in the second set but Racette emerged with a 25-19 win.

The girls' final pitting Glen Avon against F. G. Miller proved to be just as competitive. Glen Avon took the first set by a score of 26-24. F. G. Miller responded with a 25-20 win in the second set to force the tiebreaker. The finale was once again back and forth. The school from Elk Point got the better of the school from St. Paul by a score of 15-13.

"All the girls on the team played really well together," said coach Lynn Smid. "It was great that they could come out, relax and show what they can do."

"It was a great way to start off the season," said Smid.

The next tournament for Glen Avon will be at F. G. Miller in October, and Smid said she looks forward to a potential rematch between Glen Avon and F. G. Miller.

Cross Country

Brad Tillapaugh, the athletic director of Ecole Community Mallaig School, was also complimentary of Ross Lake. He stated in an email: "Ross Lake was a beautiful location to hold the run. It was very scenic with the course being right next to the lake. It was a challenging course with lots of ups and downs and varying terrain (Gravel, dirt, sand) to challenge the athletes. I was very pleased with the quality and difficulty of the run."

Ross Lake will be playing host to Cross Country Zone Championships on Wed. Oct. 7.

The day saw 12 total races being run between the different grade levels, with the course being altered slightly to account for differing distances. Grade 7 to 12 students were welcome to compete. Grade 6 students were given permission to run the course for fun and practice for next year.

School's received points for their top three finishers in each category, and then those points were added up to determine which teams would return to school with a banner in tow.

The banner results were an exact repeat of last year's results. St. Paul Regional collected the Senior High Boys Banner; Mallaig captured the Senior High Girls Banner and Racette Junior High School once again managed to collect the Junior Boys and Junior Girls banners.

Upcoming Shop Hop the first near home for northeast Alberta's quilters

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Shop-hopping is a much-anticipated activity for quilters, many of whom from this area are willing to travel long distances to take part in these events. This time, however they won't have to go that far. Quilters in the Lakeland are eagerly awaiting the area's first-ever Northeastern Alberta Shop Hop, which is coming up on Saturday, Oct. 3, with six stores, from St. Paul to Cold Lake, welcoming shoppers from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. that day.

Yvonne St. Arnault of Yvonne's Gone Quilting, St. Paul, the western-most shop on the Hop, is "honoured and excited. It's great to be a part of it, I think we'll be really busy for a change." She has stocked her shelves with "lots of specials" for the event, and had already sold several of the Shop Hop passports a week ahead of time. She's even got a stack of discount coupons for Smitty's Restaurant, next door, so shoppers will start off on their journey well nourished for the day to come, and more coupons for BeanTrees Café in Cold Lake, because they may need a break by then.

The passport explains the concept and simple rules of the Shop Hop: purchase your passport at a participating merchant, fill in your name and phone number, and get ready for a delightful day of shopping. Get your passport signed at each of the six merchants' locations (purchases not required), and drop it into the draw box at the last merchant's store that you visit. Those who have their passports validated at all six stores qualify to be in a draw for six $35 gift certificates, while all passports qualify for the second prize draw for six $20 gift certificates and the bonus prize draws.

Each store will have in-store draws and discounts and will also have a player-driven Fat Quarter draw: purchase and enter a fat quarter of fabric and you are able to put your name in the draw to win all the fat quarters entered at that store.

At Stedmans, few blocks east on 50th Ave. Lena Ayotte is also "pretty excited about it." She has been on a number of shop hops in the USA as well as on several in central Alberta, but this will be her first time working at one, "and I get to decorate the fabric section as well," she enthuses. "It will be a good time for those who can go on the Hop," she predicts, "and I'll enjoy serving all the customers." She's also looking forward to the feedback that the shop hoppers write on their passports before putting them in the draw boxes, and hopes that "they'll tell us what they'd like to see another year." If it's a success, the shop hop could be extended to other stores, she said. "And at our store, it's not only for quilters," she noted, as the store is also planning other specials for that day.

Along with the two St. Paul stores, the Shop Hop includes Itch to Stitch on Elk Road at Muriel Lake, Brosseau's Department Store in downtown Bonnyville and Your Sewing Store and Quilted Gems and Treasures, just two blocks apart on 50th Ave. in Cold Lake.

PASSPORT IN HAND - Yvonne St. Arnault of Yvonne's Gone Quilting displays the passport for Saturday's 2015 Northeast Alberta Shop Hop.
